August 24 – Chuppah in Munkach

Rav Reuven Stamov officiated at the wedding ceremony for a young couple and active members from the Kiev Masorti Community. The place in Munkach, Zakarpattia Oblast, was decorated as never before. There were special carpets, flowers, something about 50 guests, and a big chuppah. Rav Reuven was perfect in conducting the ceremony. First of the Sheva Berachot's, was read by the groom's father. After the bridegroom declares, "Behold, thou art consecrated to me with this ring, according to the law of Moses and Israel," the bride usually replies, in Hebrew, "I am my beloved's, my beloved is mine." Members of MAROM Club were present on chuppah, 15 people. Many youth from Kiev Community were invited to the ceremony and it was, it was an unforgettable experience for them, their friends, community members become the Jewish family. Avrum Lebovich, groom's father – head of Munkach Jewish community, he was very proud that his son keeps tradition. Lebovich family is very famous in Munkach. The groom's grandfather wrote Ketubot and great grandfather officiated all Jewish weddings in Zakarpattya during the Soviet Union. It is such a great tradition which is transmitted from generation to generation to be in masorti, to create a traditional Jewish family. During the Soviet Union Lebovich family keeps tradition and was really famous.
